

Officials will enforce Albany sign ordinance

ALBANY — Albany city officials are moving to enforce enforcement of their sign ordinance, adopted 19 months ago, with new limits on sign size, design, characteristics and quality.

A survey of non-conforming signs is being conducted among the city's 400 businesses, according to Public Works Director Bob Guletz.

"After we have information on how many businesses have non-conforming signs, we will begin circulating brochures describing the sign law and contacting individual business owners about possible violations," Guletz said.

He estimated that perhaps 100 businesses may be in violation of the law which has not been enforced in the past due to lack of staff and a desire to allow business people time to adjust.

Immediate removal will probably be indicated for temporary non-conforming signs, such as flags, banners and streamers which originally had 90 days grace after passage of the ordinance.

Other signs such as off-premises signs, animated signs and flashing signs would also be immediately removed. They originally had a one-year grace period.

Permanent non-conforming signs which are too large have a 10-year grace period, presumably from the time the law was passed in January, 1977. Some owners may be expected to argue that the 10-year period should be measured from the time they are notified by the city after the survey.

Guletz said, "The sign law had an immediate impact in 1977 in that all new signs had to conform."

"In addition, any owner wanting to make a change in his or her sign had to bring it into conformance to receive a use permit. And if the business ownership changes then the law requires immediate conformance to the new regulations," he said.

Guletz said he expects the survey to be finished within a few weeks. The brochure will be circulated in about a month and the letters to owners of non-conforming signs will be sent after that.

Mayor Jackson charges

Appointment to civil service post illegal

'Conflict of interest in assignment'

ALBANY — The Albany City Council's appointment of a temporary secretary to the Civil Service Commission has been described as "disgraceful and illegal" by Councilwoman Joyce Jackson.

The council Monday night appointed Deputy City Clerk Jacqueline Bucholtz to the temporary secretary job by a 3-1 vote, with Councilwoman Jackson dissenting.

She said there is a conflict of interest because Mrs. Bucholtz is married to William Bucholtz, an Albany police officer.

Retiring City Finance Director Bette Rhodes had been commission secretary; and Mrs. Bucholtz' appointment will last only (Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

HILL HAZARD — Officials this week completed investigation of a truck accident on Solano Avenue in which a trailer carrying 8,800 gallons of gasoline overturned. The mishap occurring near the crest of the grade, July 26, forced evacuation of all homes within a two-block area. Officers believe the rig "apparently jack-knifed and tipped over the trailer when the truck lost power on the steep grade, and coasted backward, after slowing for a passenger car ahead of it. Gasoline leaking out of the valves was flushed into the sewers by firemen who stood by until the wreck was removed. Damage to the trailer was estimated at $20,000. Albany Councilmen five days later approved erection of emergency street signs directing heavy trucks away from the grade.

Albany area to elect East Bay Water District director

ALBANY — Residents of East Bay Municipal Utility District's (EBMUD) Ward Four (Albany and Berkeley) will name a director in the election scheduled November 7. Candidates may take out official nomination papers from the EBMUD secretary beginning Friday.

The filing period itself begins Aug. 9, and the deadline for filing papers is 4:30 p.m., Aug. 25, according to Utility District Secretary John H. Plumb.

Although there is no filing fee required, candidates must complete the official forms and file nomination papers containing the signatures of at least 50 registered voters living in the ward of the candidate.

When taking out papers, candidates must file their names and addresses with the Secretary. This then becomes public record.

The EBMUD Board of Directors is responsible for determining policies for the operation and management of a water system serving more than a million people in the East Bay, and a water pollution control system providing wastewater treatment for nine communities in the Oakland-Berkeley area.

The term of office for directors is four years beginning January 8, 1979, and they are elected by the voters only in the ward each represents.

Seats up for election on November 7 are for EBMUD Wards 2, 3, 4, and 7. None of the incumbents has indicated candidacy plans yet.

Ward 2 is in Contra Costa County, including the central county communities of Orinda, Moraga, Lafayette, Walnut Creek, part of Pleasant Hill, and the San Ramon Valley, and the west county communities of El Cerrito and Kensington. The incumbent is DeWitt W. Krueger.

Wards 3, 4, and 7 are in Alameda County.

Ward 3 consists of Emeryville, Piedmont, and North and West Oakland generally between Clarendon Avenue and 52nd Street on the north and Park Boulevard, the MacArthur Freeway, and Redwood Road on the south. Jon Q. Reynolds, board president, is the incumbent.

Ward 4 includes all of Berkeley and Albany, and a small portion of North Oakland above Clarendon Avenue and 52nd Street. Helen Burke is the incumbent.

Ward 7 takes in San Leandro east of the Southern Pacific tracks, East Oakland south of 82nd and Keller Avenues, Castro Valley, and the unincorporated communities east of the Nimitz Freeway and north of Hayward. The incumbent is C. R. "Ted" Hitchcock.

Detailed maps of the EBMUD wards are available for inspection in the Secretary's office, Room 104, Administration Center, 2130 Adeline Street, Oakland. Information regarding filing and elections procedures may be obtained by calling 835-3000, extension 211.

Another job census for Albany area

ALBANY — Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in this area during the work week of August 14 to 19. John E. Tharaldson, director of the bureau's regional office in Seattle, announced today.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 70,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation.

In June the survey indicated that of the 100.6 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 94.8 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 5.7 percent, the lowest in nearly four years.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey "is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals."

Plans for Gateview given nod

ALBANY — The Albany City Council has decided to support Gateview development's efforts to obtain the federal government's new allocation of 70 units of senior citizen housing in Alameda County.

If Gateview receives some of all of the 70 units allotted to Alameda County, the units would be included in a larger 198-unit senior housing project in the northwest corner of the Gateview property on Albany Hill.

The council voted its support Monday night after being assured that the federal rules will prevent the developers from converting the units into condominiums within a few years.

Firms that are allotted units will receive lower interest rates for construction financing and will be required to charge lower rents to senior citizens in the specified units.

No Pop Warner Football Team

ALBANY — Albany will not field a Pop Warner Football Team for the 1978 season, league officials announced today.

"Due to many unsettled factors," a Warner spokesman said, "we will go through a reorganization process and intend to field a team next year."

School superintendent maps austerity program

ACT director, production crews meeting

ALBANY — Facing an approximately one-million dollar cut in the Albany Unified District's school budget, Superintendent Charles McCully today reaffirmed the AUUSD policy of giving top priority to the K-12 instruction program.

"The quality of the K-12 (kindergarten through 12th grade) classes will be maintained to the limits of our financial capabilities," McCully said. "Even with Albany's share of the state surplus, the tentative budget for the coming year is $4,754,495, as opposed to last year's $5,537,659."

Measures necessary to meet the economic crisis will be the principal topic of the August 16 session of the board of education. The meeting will be held in the multi-purpose room of the Marin School, at 8 p.m.

Preliminary measures to slash costs include personnel cuts (through attrition and layoffs), and instituting self-supporting systems for a number of the district programs.

"As of now we haven't filled any of the 17 vacancies in certified positions, and we have cut out all summer school and adult-education teaching salaries," McCully said.

Adult education teachers will have to be paid from increased class fees. "And we're hoping to come up with some creative solutions for the summer school of 1979."

"Seven full-time and one part-time classified positions were eliminated by the board meeting in a special session on July 31. Now, in the 'Spirit of '13', we hope to shift district personnel around to fill vacancies rather than hiring new people. As a case in point, Richard Rosenquist, our assistant superintendent, has been given the additional duty of Vista School principal, following the resignation of Penny Schmah."

Sustaining the more drastic cuts are allocations for new equipment and contracted services, down 48 percent to $115,500. With emphasis on classroom programs, however, the budgeting for texts, general books and instructional supplies has been reduced only 9 percent (from $145,956 to $132,500).

"With the aid of the state surplus funds, the Albany classrooms will be operated on a 'business as usual' level to the best of our financial ability," McCully continued, "but class sizes will go up as certified personnel are not replaced, and psychological and counseling services will be drastically reduced."

"We'll be cutting down too, on field and study trips, and curtailing the supply of (Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

ALBANY — The Albany Community Theatre will hold a production crew meeting this evening in the Albany Community Center, at which Jan Lewis, director of "The Madwoman of Chailot," and the production designers will meet with the production crew members.

The crews for costuming, lighting, set construction, props, play program, sound, music, backstage crew and ushers will be organized and receive production schedules.

Performances of "The Madwoman of Chailot" are scheduled Sept. 15, 16, 22, 23, 29 and 30, at 8 p.m. and Sept. 17, 24, and Oct. 1, at 2 p.m.

Amount of tax cut still 'guesstimate'

ALBANY — Albany residents anticipating a windfall in the form of reduced residential property taxes, due to the Jarvis-Gann initiative, "may be disappointed," according to a spokesman for the Alameda County assessor's office.

"A little-noted but possible expensive element in Proposition 13," the Alameda official said, "stipulates that all voter-approved bond obligations or special assessments must be met on top of the Jarvis-Gann basic tax figure of one percent."

He admitted that definite figures on assessments cannot be given as yet, but commented that Contra Costa County, which is somewhat more advanced in this procedure, "intends to mail out cards the latter part of this month showing the new assessed valuation of homes and an estimated tax figure after Jarvis-Gann."

A statewide estimate has been made that indicates, (Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

APPOINTMENT

Twenty years and some hundreds of quilts ago, as time is measured in sewing circles, women of the Albany United Methodist Church formed a Twentieth Century version of the Nineteenth Century quilting bee.

"The 'bee' has been convening regularly, for the past couple of decades, on Wednesday mornings at 9:30 in the church, for what they term as 'a sew-sew time'."

"All of the quilting-bee founders are gone now", Martha Ross, a veteran needler, admitted today, "but we have a few old-timers who have been with the club during most of its existence. Our oldest member is Mary Marr. She'll be 95 this year, and she sews beautifully."

Which may be a new version of the stitch in time.

"Everyone brings a sack lunch for the Wednesday meetings", Martha said, "and one member is responsible for the desert each week. We enjoy every minute of the quilting, usually working at it until about 3:30 in the afternoon."

"We can handle a quilting job for anyone who has the pieced material, batting and backing. We've stitched quilt designs that run all the way from Yo-Yo to Lone Star, and we've been able to follow any design submitted. The fees we earn go into the church budget."

The Twentieth Century success of this Victorian craft indicates that the "bee" is as popular now as it was in the days Aunt Diana was throwing her parties.

Names of eight Albany students, enrolled at the College of Alameda, appeared on the Dean's Honor List for the Spring Quarter.

The students, who maintained a grade-point average of at least 3.3 on a scale of 4, are: John Campbell, Albert Chang, Hisaye Doi, Bruce Fox, Joan Hartman, Bunny Lee, Vickie Rentlen, and Yael Arens.

Charles H. Brown, who joined the ranks of the Leathernecks last April, completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego this week.

Pvt. Brown, the son of Gerald and Jaron Brown of Albany, learned the basics of battlefield survival during his nine-week training cycle, and was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will follow during his enlistment. Included in his indoctrination was instruction in the personal and professional standards of the Corps.

until a new finance director is chosen.

The council action was taken upon the recommendation of Police Chief James Simmons.

Councilwoman Jackson told the I-G that Chief Simmons in the past has made unsuccessful attempts to get information pertaining to confidential Civil Service Commission deliberations. The commission's secretary has access to confidential information.

Councilwoman Jackson said that Officer Bucholtz will be taking civil service exams for promotion.

Pat Griffin, former city council member, spoke from the audience, indicating that the city charter calls for the commission appointing its secretary.

The council also appointed part-time account clerk Jane Newton as temporary finance director, pending the hiring of Ms. Rhode's successor. The vote was unanimous. Councilman William Lewis was absent.

In other actions, Police Chief Simmons said innuendos that the Albany City Council facilitated the establishment of local adult book stores are "malicious and unfounded."

Mayor Lewis Howell reminded the council meeting audience that the city repeatedly closed an adult book store, arresting its operator several times before the store moved out of town.

Their comments were directed to a statement by citizen John Maybury reportedly broadcast on a San Francisco television station and reprinted for the council's perusal.

Maybury stated that the council adopted rezoning helping the adult book store locate within the city, adding, "... I can only wonder whether they were motivated by money, muscle or misinformation. Where is the conscience of the city council?"

After the arrest of the book store operator, the council was advised by its city attorney that it is illegal to outlaw "porno parlors" and that the only effective approach was by limiting them to certain zones. This was done, with the adult book stores limited to industrial zones. There are no such businesses in Albany now.

After reviewing the accusations, the council Monday night decided to take no action.

enrichment materials and equipment. The after-school recreation program will be completely eliminated.

"The key word in the budget picture is 'self-support'." Generally speaking, programs not directly tied to instruction will have to pay their own way.

"The Albany Pool has been switched to a 'self-support' plan and will continue on this basis during the school year. Food services, with a raise in prices, will go on the same basis."

"Finally, community use of school facilities also will be put into the self-supporting category. Charges covering such costs as utilities and custodial services will be levied."

"Before the beginning of the new school term", the superintendent concluded, "a fee schedule will be drawn up for such commonly-used sites as the Albany High School, the Little Theatre, and the Marin School multi-purpose room."

with special assessments tacked on, that the average home will be taxed about one and one-quarter percent. This would put the taxes on an $80,000 home at $800 in basic taxes plus a quarter-percent for voter approved obligations, bringing the total to $1,000.

"However," he added, "each assessment district will vary."

Merit Matches Flavor Giants!

—New National Smoker Study

High tar smokers report: low tar MERIT delivers flavor of leading high tar brands.

Read how 'Enriched Flavor'™ MERIT has been endorsed by the results of a new national smoker study.

Results Confirm MERIT Breakthrough

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

Detailed interviews were also conducted with current MERIT smokers.

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy! This is perhaps the most important evidence to date that MERIT is the first major alternative for high tar smokers.

Nureyev in 7 Berkeley performances

On August 29, Rudolph Nureyev, accompanied by The Dutch National Ballet will open a seven-performance week in the Bay Area at the Zellerbach Auditorium/Berkeley.

Highlights of the engagement — presented by James M. Nederlander and S. A. Gorkinsky, Nureyev's London-based manager — under the Schoreinstein-Nederlander banner — are new works created especially for the legendary dancer by the Dutch company's trio of resident choreographers: Artistic Director Rudi van Dantzig, Toer van Schayk and Han van Manen.

The full program includes the two works created for Nureyev: van Dantzig's "Aubert Dark House" to Habbestock-Ramati score and van Schayk's "Faun" to Debussy's Prelude to "The Afternoon of a Faun," "Four Last Songs" (van Dantzig/Richard Strauss created for and performed by the company; and Hans van Manen's "four Schumann Pieces" (Robert Schumann) in which Mr. Nureyev will dance the principal role.

Sunday School Classes for all ages will meet from 9:30 to 10:45 a.m.

The Book of Acts is the current study at the Mid-Week Power Hour held on Wednesdays from 7 to 8 p.m.

New measure will seek fund increase

SACRAMENTO — State Senator John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, has introduced legislation to increase the appropriation of state surplus money to special districts from $125,000,000 to $275,000,000.

"The decision to fund special districts at the $125,000,000 level was based in part on inappropriate estimates," Senator Nejedly said. "As a result, special districts have been short-changed and the reaction statewide to the July 20th announcement from the Controller's Office of the distribution for the $125,000,000 bears this out," Nejedly went on to say.

Nejedly noted that the money was urgently needed so that counties could comply with State Law calling for maintenance of 1977-78 levels of service for fire and police jurisdictions, but also to ensure that other special districts, such as water and sanitation, would not be left holding on to thin air.

Renaissance Pleasure Faire will re-open on August 19

NOVATO — To celebrate the arrival of harvest time, with its festive annual traditions, The Renaissance Pleasure Faire reopens Aug. 19 near Novato for six consecutive weekends including Labor Day through Sept. 24, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day.

For the past 11 years, more and more people have celebrated the end of summer by taking themselves to The Renaissance Faire. Here, they discover and explore a hidden Elizabethan village alive with the colorful revelry of the days of William Shakespeare.

Four hundred years ago in England, the reign of Queen Elizabeth I marked the end of wars, social chaos and dark political struggles under her father, Henry VIII, and her half-sister, "Bloody Mary." To her people, Good Queen Bess seemed to provide peace and prosperity which they in turn celebrated in rousing English fashion.

The Renaissance Pleasure Faire re-creates those days when even small towns held annual celebrations complete with pageants, plays, music, feasting, and general merriment.

The Renaissance Pleasure Faire is sponsored and produced by The Living History Centre, a non-profit educational foundation.

To reach the Renaissance Faire site, motorists may take Highway 101 (North) from San Francisco to Highway 37 east and follow the signs to free parking. Public transportation is available through Golden Gate Transit. For Ferry schedule and other public transit information, readers may call (415) 883-3208. General Faire information: (415) 883-2391.

Students organize

PALO ALTO — COPUS, a national coalition of students from private universities and colleges, will hold a conference at Stanford on Aug. 28.

Some 30 to 40 student body officers or their representatives are expected to attend the session.

On the agenda are a forum on financing higher education, including the use of tax credits for parents, seminars on the effect of the Jarvis-Gann amendment and the Bakke decision, and workshops on forming and using a student lobby system similar to that carried by UC-Berkeley students at Sacramento.

COPUS is allied with AICCU, the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, as cosponsor. A similar meeting will be held at USC on Aug. 26.

Alameda Bowling Assn. honors veteran keglers

By PHIL ALSTON

ALBANY — Two veteran Albany Bowl keglers were honored at the Alameda County Bowling Association's annual installation dinner at the Berkeley Marina last Saturday night.

Frank V. Spicer, Richmond resident and secretary of the 915 Major League at Albany, was installed as president of the Association, succeeding Dick Herron of Alameda.

Clarence L. (Kelly) Buck of Berkeley, secretary and member of the Elks League, was chosen for the ACBA Hall of Fame along with Russ Kogler of Oakland.

A one-time manager of Berkeley Bowl, Buck served two terms as president of the Metropolitan Oakland Bowling Association in 1951-53 and was well known for his promotion of bowling among Bay Area Elks lodges.

Kogler was a high average bowler for more than 50 years and recorded a 739 series in 1967 when he was 68 years old. He spent 35 years behind the desk at Oakland's Broadway Bowl.

Seven of the 25 members of the Alameda County Hall of Fame had Albany Bowl connections, either as officers, employees or league bowlers.

Last week's league play saw a continuation of the close races for the top three spots in the two Jubilee leagues.

Del's Delights maintained a one game first place edge over H Bums in the Jubilee Mixed by taking all three from Just Us behind Ron Thompson's 560 series and a 555 by Del Thompson. H Bums squeezed out a 3-0 win over Rod's Coffee Shop by the narrowest of margins. They won the first game by two pins, the second by four and the third by three.

R.J.'s Cocktails moved into third place by beating Dolmens 3-0, replacing Hits & Misses, who fell victim 2-1 to Solano Club and Bob Mann's 590 series.

In the Men's Jubilee a 3-0 loss to Blue & Gold dropped Richmond Brass to second as Performance, Inc., took the league lead with a 2-1 decision over Gruesome Four.

John Glover's best of the season 221 game and 595 series led Soul Patrol 3-0 over Less Do It Again and into a tie for third with Herman's, 2-1 losers to Graphic Business Forms.

Mary Laurella gave Bonanza Blue Chip its best series of the summer at 532. James Bragg, an adult member of the Junior Senior Fours, had the week's best individual performance with 256-652.

Other leaders included George Schaber with 784 in Scratch Trios, Jim Navarro 606 for Plaza Specials, Bill James 583, in the Morrison Memorial and Greg Chiu 560 for Oakland Chinese.

The Bay Area All Stars tournament club will make its annual visitation to Albany Bowl August 12-13. A field of 150 competing in two divisions is expected.

4,200 striped bass in San Joaquin tagged

ANTIOCH — The state Department of Fish and Game has tagged 4,255 striped bass in the San Joaquin River near Antioch, Contra Costa County, this year, about 30 percent of them with $5, $10, or $20 reward tags.

Anglers can help assure the future of the striped bass resource by returning any tags they find, rewards or not, said David Kohorst, associate fishery biologist in charge of the DFG's striped bass, sturgeon and resident fishes project.

Included with the returned tag should be information on when and where the fish was caught and whether the angler was fishing from a private boat, commercial passenger fishing boat or the shore.

Striped bass creel checkers observed 4,117 bass in the San Francisco Bay area during last year's creel census of commercial passenger fishing boat anglers. Previously, the greatest number of fish checked from these boats was 5,271 in 1974. A total of 3,076 bass were observed in 1976.

Experts will map future of wild rivers

LOS ANGELES — A project by environmental experts from the University of California at Los Angeles to study California's wild and scenic rivers has been selected for Ford Foundation support in a national competition.

UCLA faculty and graduate students will be joined by representatives from six state agencies to begin the project next fall under a $37,500 grant from the Ford Foundation. The Foundation chose 19 projects from among over 200 proposals. The competition was aimed at encouraging universities to work with state governments on improving management of the environment.

Setting for the study will be California's North Coast, stretching north of the San Francisco Bay area to the Oregon border and west of the Coastal Ranges. Here, in one of the state's most beautiful and least settled areas, are the last of California's free-flowing rivers, including the Smith, Klamath, Trinity, Van Duzen, Mad and Eel rivers.

These waters are currently protected from development or diversion by the California Wild and Scenic Rivers Act of 1972, but with the continuous growth of Southern California and the specter of future droughts, serious questions are being raised about the most beneficial use of the rivers in the years to come.

Jurisdictional responsibility for management of the rivers cuts across a number of state agencies whose purposes and goals may vary widely. The joint UCLA-state study will try to assess possible tradeoffs between advocates of development and preservation, and will try to develop a system of collaboration and consultations among the agencies involved.

Some of the major issues the project team will face are:

- Can the conflicting values of unspoiled nature and the downstream urban and agricultural thirst for water be resolved, and how?
- What is the best public and government framework for judging these issues and evolving basic policies for water management?
- What are the viewpoints and priorities of different interest groups?

The 15-month project will be conducted by faculty and graduate students in UCLA's Environmental Science and Engineering (ESE) program, which over the past six years has been involved in 20 major studies with private and government agencies on environmental and energy problems.

Heading the project is Professor Richard L. Perrine, chairman of ESE, and Professor Laura Lake of the Political Science department who will be the principal social scientist. They will be joined by other faculty members in engineering, biology and geology and by 8 to 10 graduate students.

Policy will be set by a steering committee which will include directors of research and planning for the participating agencies. These are the UC Water Resources, Water Resources Control Board, Department of Fish and Game, Department of Food and Agriculture, and the Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission. It is expected that the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation will also be represented.

"Our study will be as impartial and objective as we can make it," says Perrine, "and we will take special account of the intangible or non-monetary factors that make the North Coast and its rivers such a superb natural and recreational resource for our citizens."

A major benefit of the study, says Perrine, will be the experience gained by the participating UCLA students, some of whom are expected to serve as interns with the state agencies. Later, these graduates will take jobs as professional environmental experts in public or private organizations.

Californians heading for hill country

DAVIS — If you've ever thought of packing it all up and heading for the hills, you're not alone.

"Most persons than ever before are leaving metropolitan areas for small towns and the countryside, a reversal of the traditional rural to urban migration," says Alvin D. Sokolow of the Institute of Governmental Affairs at the University of California, Davis.

Sokolow's findings on the redistribution of California's population appeared recently in the California Data Brief, published by the Institute of Governmental Studies at UC Berkeley.

Sokolow, who is also an associate professor in the political science department at UC Davis, reports that since 1970, a major shift has occurred in the growth and distribution of California's population.

Highlights of the study are:

- There has been a sharp increase in the growth of nonmetropolitan counties, now growing three times as fast as metropolitan counties.

- This is a direct result of a four-fold increase in net migration to the rural counties.
- There has been a parallel slowdown in metropolitan population increases, with significant population losses recorded in some suburban as well as core cities.
- California Data Brief is a series of occasional reports offering data on emerging trends and issues in California.
- Single copies of the California Data Brief are available from the Institute of Governmental Studies.

Dear Sir:

Friends of Albany Library, Inc. wish to express appreciation for the tremendous cooperation given by the buying community in making this year's recent "Book Sale" the most successful ever. Over $2,500 was received and expenses will be very limited.

Our special thanks go to the local stores for displaying book-wanted and book-sale signs, and to the many individuals who donated books.

The invaluable assistance from volunteer youth and adults was greatly appreciated, as they put in endless community-service hours pricing, selling and moving books around by trucks to the sorting garage and the Cornell School's multi-purpose room.

Since the passage of Proposition 13 the Book Sale funds are more needed than ever for the unbudgeted necessities for Albany Library which is funded by Alameda County.

Thank you,
Ruth Lane, secretary
Mary Hartung, chairman.

Dear Sir:

I was happy to see Redwood National Park expanded and encouraged by the Forest Service's plan to inventory potential wilderness areas with it's RARE II study. However, much of this land is being proposed for development by the timber industry and the government agency that is supposed to be doing the reviewing.

"Wilderness", as used in the RARE II study, refers to presently undeveloped federal land (under the Wilderness Act of 1964). The act proposes that "within wilderness there will be no roads, no timber harvesting, no structures or installations, and no use of motor bikes or landing of aircraft (except emergencies).

The timber industry claims that a plentiful supply of timber helps the American economy. But they're sending a large part of what they cut in the Northeast to Japan instead of satisfying domestic demand and limiting the gross overcutting of the National Forest.

I would like to see a more conservation-oriented approach to logging on land already designated as such, through multi-use, selective cutting, etc., rather than clear cutting. I don't think we can pay the price of devastated watersheds, disrupted wildlife and a diminished flow of recreational dollars that we're asked to bear so that loggers can profit.

Wilderness areas preserve a living, intact forest — something that helps assure a natural plentiful flow of water in the rivers of the parched West, attracts hikers and travelers, and exists for generations to come. When the clearcutting of a forest is finished, it's a wasteland for decades. The public must push for new wilderness now, as the RARE II project is nearing completion, rather than accept what the project is doing: assigning most of the unprotected lands to the "development" category.

VISITING BAY AREA — Some 150 Coast Guard cadets will sail under the Golden Gate Bridge at 9 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 11 aboard the Training Barque Eagle. This will be the first time in 13 years that the Eagle has visited this port. The ship was built in 1936 at Hamburg, Germany, used as a training vessel for German naval cadets, and acquired by the U.S. Coast Guard in 1946 as a war preparation. The vessel will be tied up at Pier 45 and open to the public on Aug. 11 from 1 to 6 p.m., on Aug. 12 from 1 to 8 p.m., Aug. 13 from 3 to 6 p.m., and Aug. 14 from 6 to 9 p.m.

Obituary notices

Grace Bishop

ALBANY — Grace Bishop, 87, a resident of Albany for more than 45 years, died Sunday in a Sacramento convalescent home. She was a 50-year member of Albany Chapter 550, Order of Eastern Star.

Surviving are four sons — Leverett J. Bishop of Albany; Melvin L. Bishop, El Cerrito; Donald V. Bishop, Carmichael; and Robert W. Bishop of Concord. Also surviving are eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Services were conducted at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the Ellis-Olsen Mortuary by Albany Chapter 550, O.E.S., preceding private commitment.

Gloria C. Clark

ALBANY — Gloria Clare Clark, a former resident of Albany, and an Oakland teacher since 1970, died last week in an Oakland hospital.

Mrs. Clark was a member of a number of teacher organizations, the National Charity League, Gamma Phi Beta, College Women's Club, British-American Club, and the Inner-Life Foundation.

The daughter of the late Judge A.F. Molina and Mary Molina, she was graduated from San Diego State University and completed work on her master's degree at the University of LaVerne.

New location for nursery school co-op

BERKELEY — Dandelion Co-operative Nursery School announced today that it will move to a new location for the fall semester. The new site will be at Northbrae Community Church, 941 The Alameda, Berkeley.

Dandelion offers a variety of activities for 2½ to 5 year olds. Art projects, games, music, and field trips are coordinated by the Director, Melissa Gambetti. The parents assist in running the school and provide nutritious snacks while participating as assistant teachers.

The school day runs from 9 a.m. to 12 noon with the number of days per week dependent on the age of the child and the wishes of the parents. Interested parents should contact Bonnie at 527-1913, Jackie at 524-0373, or Sara at 527-4639.

Giulio Zarri

Giulio Zarri, 97, a native of Volpedo, Italy, died suddenly, Wednesday, in his El Sobrante home.

Mr. Zarri was the husband of the late Adele Zarri, and father of Albany businessman Joseph A. Zarri; Rose Mary Zarri of El Sobrante, and Catharine A. Vollnayer of Redwood City. Also surviving are nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Mr. Zarri was a member of St. Callistus Catholic Church, the Galileo Club, and Knights of Columbus Contra Costa Council No. 2741.

A Rosary was recited Thursday evening in the chapel of the Schmidt and Dixon Funeral Home, and a Mass of Christian Burial was conducted at 9 a.m. Friday, preceding interment in St. Joseph Cemetery.

Art Festival plan revived

SAN FRANCISCO — The 32nd Annual San Francisco Art Festival has been revived for Sept. 27 to Oct. 1 at the Civic Center Plaza. Although the event was eliminated from the city's Commission's budget, the city later approved $21,000 in general funds and $5,762 from the Hotel Tax.

According to Festival director Elio Benvenuto, "Our diminished funds the threat of greater reductions in the future have caused us to consider requiring a handling fee for Festival entries." Special legislation needed for the Art Commission to raise fees is being sought.

Billboard-size art makes debut in East Bay

Oil paintings at six sites

Culture has come to East Bay billboards. Have you noticed?

On six sites from Vallejo to Oakland huge oil paintings have replaced the familiar ads for cigarettes, liquor and airlines. The paintings are reproductions of originals by Bay Area artists included in a project sponsored by the California Arts Council and Foster and Kleiser, and they will be displayed through July 16.

Martin Carey, a New York state artist who carried off a similar project there, co-ordinated the venture with $5,500 from the arts council. Carey selected the artists he wanted in advance, and with them he picked out the paintings. Billboard painters in Oakland transferred the works to 10 by 23 foot plywood panels.

Both the original and the billboard painter is credited on each reproduction. The panels have been varnished, and they will be shown in other cities around the country, according to an arts council spokesman, "as long as they hold up."

Robert Bechtle, a Berkeley artist, said his painting of a car (displayed at San Pablo and Adeline in Oakland) was chosen because it was "fairly straightforward fairly simple" and would carry from a distance and also because it had been reproduced in a catalogue. Without the catalogue, he said, the billboard painter would have had to work from a slide.

"Basically all these artists are fairly realistic. The Raffaels' paintings (Judy and Joseph Raffael of Marin County) tend to be loosely painted, impressionistic, but they will probably look realistic on a billboard," Bechtle also said.

Artists and sites included in the project are:
— Robert Bechtle, San Pablo and Adeline Streets, Oakland, facing south.
— Russell Gordon, Shattuck and Ashby Avenues, Berkeley, facing north.
— Richard McLean, Market and 27th Streets,

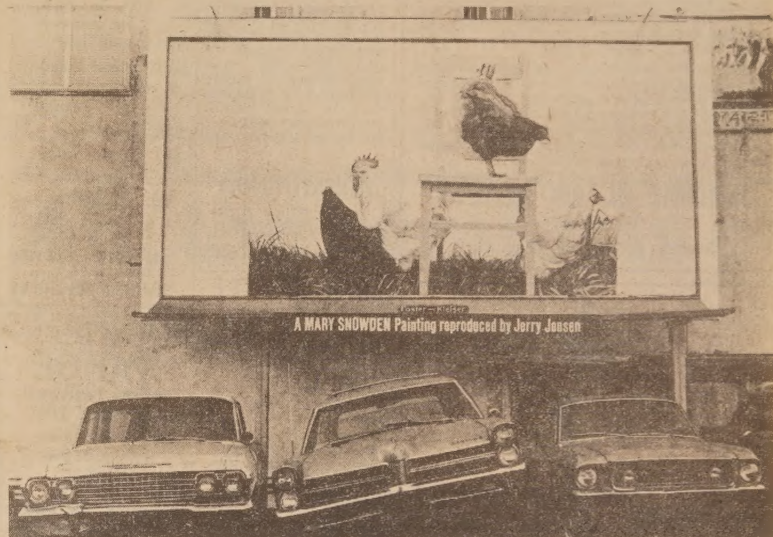

A DIFFICULT REPRODUCTION WAS THIS JUDY RAFFAEL PAINTING WHICH IS LOCATED IN EMERYVILLE AT SAN PABLO AND 63RD

Oakland, facing north.

— Joseph Raffael, Sears Point Road and Sacramento Street, Vallejo, facing east.

— Judy Raffael, San Pablo Avenue and 63rd Street, Emeryville, facing south.

— Mary Snowden, Ashby and Sacramento Avenues, Berkeley, facing south.

Cities have technology to produce own energy

SAN FRANCISCO — Local communities now have the technology to produce their own energy, according to Dr. David Morris, director of the Washington, D.C. based Institute for Local Self-Reliance. And some cities are doing just that.

Over 50 percent of the people of Davis, California ride bicycles as a major form of in-city transportation, Morris said. In San Bernardino, California one group of ten homes uses a central solar array, thus making its own utility company. In Palo Alto, the municipally owned utility is working with neighbors to develop them into self-sufficient energy producers.

"And a recent study in California found that a community with a density of 6500 people per square mile, about that of our suburban neighborhoods, could become substantially energy self-sufficient," said Morris.

David Morris has been directing research and providing technical assistance to urban planners from the Institute for Self-Reliance since 1973. Besides his lectures, Morris has written about energy problems for the Washington Post, the New York Times, the Smithsonian Review and the Los Angeles Times.

Morris said that the ability of local communities to generate their own energy needs also makes good economic sense.

*A dollar not exported will be spent locally, or deposited in a local bank, thus increasing the amount of money in circulation in the local economy, increasing jobs and the tax base of the city," he said.

Morris said local self-sufficiency means looking at houses and communities in a new way. For example, the Project Independence Solar Energy Task Force found that a typical rooftop could supply most, if not all, of the energy needs of the house. And a study in Portland concluded that 5 percent of their projected energy increase could be saved by establishing more neighborhood grocery stores to reduce trips to central supermarkets.

"In the next generation we will be building an entirely new energy production system," said Morris.

"For perhaps the first time in history we can consciously plan the type of energy system we want and, to a large degree, the kind of society we desire."

"But the current generation should not pass on the costs of their decisions to future generations. And this means relying on renewable energy resources."

Morris is currently traveling on a public lecture tour and will speak in San Francisco on Monday at the Riordan High School Auditorium (175 Phelan Avenue, opposite City College) at 8 p.m.

His presentation, "Local is Beautiful," is part of the ENERGY 2020 series which is sponsored by San Francisco State University, the National Science Foundation, and the San Francisco Foundation.

USSR aids local enzyme study

'Space rats' sent here

OAKLAND — With cooperation from the Soviet Union's space program, scientists at Bruce Lyon Memorial Research Laboratory at Children's Hospital Medical Center now are at work studying the mysterious infiltration of fat into body tissues that occurs in space.

Sandy Abraham, Ph.D., a Berkeley resident and director of research at Children's, spent several weeks in Russia last summer training doctors and technicians to prepare tissue samples so they would remain in good shape for research.

"They did very well," he said. "I feel this was a beautiful example of free exchange between people."

Russians had observed in previous flights that rats developed fat deposits in their livers.

"If rats do, people do," Dr. Abraham said. "The interesting thing is that the fatty deposits disappear in 25 days. We don't know why."

Because Bruce Lyon Lab researchers are experts in enzyme studies, they were recommended to study fat-metabolizing enzymes from various tissues of space rats by officials of National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) Ames Research Center.

Two groups of rats spent 18½ days aboard the Soviet biological satellite Cosmos 336. One group was tested immediately upon landing. The other group was kept on the ground another 25 days. Samples of regular and homogenized liver tissue were frozen in dry ice and hand-carried to the United States by Kenneth Souza, project manager at Ames. Dr. Abraham picked them up for further study at Bruce Lyon Lab.

Dr. Abraham and his associates, Dr. Chu Yuan Lin and Hope McGrath, have begun what is expected to be a 12 to 18-month project measuring the levels of about 25 to 30 enzyme activities in rat tissue.

Seven American biological experiments were orbited and returned to earth aboard the Russian satellite, which was launched Aug. 3 from Plesetsk base in the USSR and returned its biology payload to earth by parachute in Siberia Aug. 22. Biology experiments on board included others from France, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and East Germany.

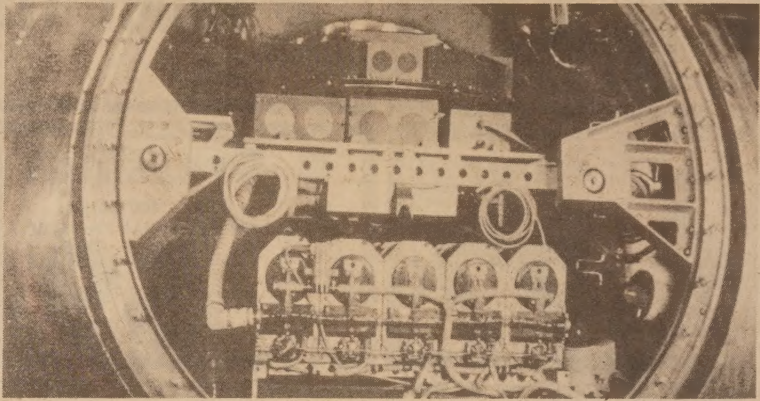

The spacecraft itself was a sphere eight feet in diameter, weighing 5,000 pounds of which 2,000 pounds were biological experiments. Of the 30 rats aboard, 20 made the trip under conditions of weightlessness and 10 were spun in a centrifuge that simulated conditions of earth gravity. It was the first test of simulated gravity on animals while in space flight.

A similar number of control animals stayed on the ground in the same type containers. Tissues from these animals also is being studied.

"Fifty animals were dedicated to research at Bruce Lyon Memorial laboratory," Dr. Abraham said. "They include five space rats in capsules, five in the centrifuge and three groups of five each that were kept on the ground, all of which were sacrificed immediately, plus the same five groups of five each which were sacrificed 25 days later."

Dr. Abraham is enthusiastic about US-USSR cooperation in the space experiments. He plans to be involved in the future U.S. experiments to study all manner of physiological functions in space.

$17.5 billion

North Coast sets sales mark

SAN FRANCISCO — Retail sales in the sixteen-county Northern Coastal region rose to an unprecedented high of $17.5 billion in 1977 — a yearly gain of 17.8 percent. This all-time high was fueled by an expanding economy — rising payrolls and higher incomes — and a growing population, says Security Pacific Bank.

"While northern coastal California experienced above-average gains in taxable retail sales, these gains were unequally distributed among product categories. Building materials and farm implements, auto dealers and suppliers, service station and home furnishings and appliances posted the strongest gains," noted Mario M. Menchini, research officer.

Menchini explained that the 1977 advance of nearly 26 percent in the building material and farm implements category is a reflection of the buoyant housing pace experienced during that period. "This category accounted for 10.4 percent of the region's $2.7 billion increase in taxable retail sales."

"Also favorably affected by the booming residential home market of the past two years was the home furnishings and appliances category, which recorded a 19.1 percent increase in 1977," said the bank's researcher.

A strong demand for motor vehicles generated after the 1973-75 recession, ranked the auto dealers and suppliers group in second place with a 25.2 percent increase in 1977 — representing nearly one fourth of the region's total 1977 dollar increase.

The sales of other major product divisions grew at considerably lower rates. In terms of percentage growth, the region's drug stores — with an advance of 14.3 percent — were followed by the apparel stores, general merchandise stores and eating and drinking establishments, all of which recorded 1977 taxable retail sales of between 13 and 14 percent.

"By county, Santa Clara led the region with a $631.1 million increase to the region's total retail sales of $3.9 billion, a growth rate of 19.3 percent. Contra Costa, Alameda, San Mateo and San Francisco counties followed. Together, those five counties represented 76 percent of northern coastal California's total taxable retail sales dollars," Menchini said.

Commenting upon the projected growth of retail sales in 1978, Menchini explained that using available national and state consumer expenditure patterns, the apparent trend is one of moderation. "The first quarter of 1978 will reflect a slackened pace followed in recovery in the second quarter. For all of 1978, the region's retail outlets will probably show a sizable reduction in taxable retail sales growth from the above-trend 17.8 percent rate posted in 1977."

Budget of Park District cut 51%

OAKLAND — The two county East Bay Regional Park District will be required to operate its 39 parks, spread over 49,700 acres, on an $8,846,220 tax allocation for fiscal year 1978-79 or about 51 percent of the 1977-78 figure of $17,577,514.

"This means belt tightening in our operations," Richard C. Trudeau, EBRPD General Manager said. "It spells the end to any new parks. However, some rounding out of existing parks will still be possible with reserve funds received before June 6 and legally restricted to land acquisition.

The Jarvis-Gann model budget figures are arrived at this way, Trudeau explained.

EBRPD will receive $2,597,994 from the $22,000,000 surplus funds allocated by the State Legislature to some 140 multi-county special districts or about 11.8 percent. He also indicated that EBRPD will share in the one percent property tax limitation to the extent of $6,248,226.

Trudeau said the new state figures were supplied by Gus Demas in the State Controller's office. EBRPD Assistant Controller Perry Carter provided the 51 percent figure in contrasting the reduced 1978-79 budget with that of the previous year.

Trudeau remarked that "this is less than we expected from the surplus (state) since the 'target' expressed by the legislature was as close to 90 percent of last year's tax funds for most local agencies."

"However, these funds, together with what we are receiving from increased fees and charges plus the use of a portion of the District's reserves will be sufficient to operate our Regional Parks at a near-normal level until at least October.

Trudeau said EBRPD also hopes to share in the additional $37,000,000 in state surplus funds which will be made available during the month of August on a 'needs basis' to both multi-county and intra-county special districts which number about 5,000.

The EBRPD General Manager pointed out that the District will derive estimated $1,100,000 in and charges during the rent year or an increase about $300,000 over 1977.

These funds, he added, can be augmented by judicious allocations from the EBRPD $4,200,000 serves. He felt it would necessary to husband reserves over "several years."
